2022 International Foundation program
for English Medium Majors (Undergraduate)

2022 NPU Spring Intake English Foundation Program is Open Now!

This program is taught in English for International Foundation Program courses (Undergraduate). The purpose of the program is to help international students master the basic professional knowledge of Chinese universities, cultivate enough language ability, master certain intercultural communication ability, and better adapt to their study and life in China.

Training Objects

The training objects of International Foundation Program are foreign high school graduates who are willing to come to Northwestern Polytechnical University for undergraduate education, and majored in engineering or business (taught in English) at undergraduate stage.

Curriculum Design

Subject Direction

This program has two directions of engineering and business. After successfully completing the specific courses and passing the examinations, students can enter the Northwestern Polytechnical University to study engineering or business majors.

Training Objectives

This program aims to comprehensively cultivate the basic professional knowledge, language ability, cross-cultural communication ability and academic planning ability of students.

2.1 Basic Professional knowledge

Through the intensive teaching of professional basic knowledge from senior high school to university, we can fill in the differences of basic education between the countries where international students live and China, establish a relatively complete knowledge structure of high school, and get familiar with the content and difficulty of university professional courses in advance.

2.2 Language Ability

It includes practical English and basic Chinese. Among them, practical English includes comprehensive training of English listening, speaking, reading and writing skills, expanded reading of scientific English and business English, etc. It aims to help international students from non English-speaking countries adapt to the language environment of English teaching major in advance, and initially have the English ability to learn, research and communicate. Basic Chinese will teach international students the necessary knowledge of Chinese pronunciations, vocabularies, sentences and daily conversations.

The purpose is to help international students adapt to life in China.

2.3 Intercultural Communication Ability

Through Chinese culture courses, we will introduce Chinese history and culture, science and technology, economy, customs, social life, etc. It can help international students to reserve certain understanding, communication and problem-solving ability in campus life, interpersonal communication and social practice.

2.4 Academic Planning Ability

Relevant staffs from Admission Office will provide academic planning guidance lectures. They will introduce the major profile, academic planning, application process, etc. to international students, and help them plan their own academic development reasonably.
